Dear Professor Zheng:

My thanks for your application to join Pace Law School as a Visiting Scholar. I am delighted to be able to offer you an appointment on the terms that follow:

Appointment: Your appointment as a Visiting Scholar will begin on Saturday, July 20, 2018 and end on Sunday, January 20, 2019. During this time you will be working on the topic, Environmental Enforcement Reform and Compliance. I am pleased to note that your level of English is sufficient so that we can and do offer you an appointment on the following terms:

Financial Arrangements: Although Pace Law School ordinarily charges a fee of $1,500 per semester to Visiting Scholars, this fee is waived in your case, based on the longstanding relationship between Pace and Hubei University School of Economics. The Law School does not offer Visiting Scholars any funding, payment, scholarship, housing, living expenses or any other financial support. You are responsible for all of your expenses including travel, housing, room and board and any other personal expenses. You must provide financial certificate(s) in order to initiate your application for a DS-2019 form for your visa application according to the corresponding regulations. Pace does not have housing suitable for Visiting Scholars, but my office can assist you in your effort to secure appropriate accommodations.

Advisor: University Professor Nicolas Robinson and Professor David Cassuto will serve as your academic advisors during this appointment. I will serve as your administrative contact and do everything I can to ensure that you enjoy a highly successful visit here.

Facilities: I have attached a copy of the Pace Law School Visiting Scholar Policy for your information. You will find it on the Pace Law School website at <http://law.pace.edu/visiting-scholar-policy>. We recommend that you bring or purchase your own compatible laptop with a built-in high speed wireless connection. Pace Law School will provide you with a wireless guest account to the Law School wireless network so that you will have access to email and the Internet.

Publications: Pace Law School sponsors several excellent law reviews, and we hope that you will consider submitting some of your written work to one of these journals for publication. That way, we can further consolidate the relationship we are building with you as a new member of the Pace community.

On behalf of Dean David Yassky, our faculty and our many distinguished alumni, allow me to express my sincere congratulations. We look forward to your joining our community for a fruitful visit, and I personally look forward to welcoming you to Pace.

Sincerely,

Cecilia Caldeira Frain
